were found at an early hour yesterday morning weltering in their blood, with their heads laid open by the edge of a chopping ax, in their house, a short distance from Vincennes. The first knowledge of the occurrence of the terrible tragedy was gained by a neighbor of the murdered family. A farm hand named Provost, living with Vansalet, aroused this neighbor about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, appearing with only a toral loss. The Captain George

After daylight the neighbors, with others, repaired to Vansalet's house and discovered the two sons lying in their bed with their heads cut open, the father lying in the heads cut open, the father lying in the doorway which separated the boys room from his, dead and terribly disfigured, and in the bed where he had left his wife to go to the rescue of the boys, his wife was found butchered in the same horrible manner as the others. An examination of the window where Provost alleged he had jumped through, showed it covered with cobwels and set so firmly in the frame that it was almost impossible to raise it. The excitement in Vincennes became intense as news of the brutal turchers wared. of the brutal butchery spread.

Three axes and a prunning fork were found in the rooms. All of them had blood on them, but only one axe bore evidence of having been used in the bloody massacre. It had blood and hair on it. The others only had blood on the sides—not on the

The floor ran with blood, bed clothes were soaked with it, walls and ceilings spattered with blood and brains; it looked like a slaughter-house.

The Coroner's jury is in session this morning, and strong hints are made of lynching Provost, as all the circumstances point to him as the murderer. He come and the fifty societies which have contributed to form the same, are on the verge of finishing their labors. Unless further supplies are bought the Commissary will have to wind up its affairs Friday. Altogether the outlook for the distressed and needy is the outlook for the distressed and needy is compared to the properties of the passengers and crew that could reached the portions of the wreck and clung glish but imperfectly. Vansalet had recently drawn $100 or more from the bank, with which he intended visiting his native brance, and Provost, aware of this fact, is France, and Provost, aware of this fact, is supposed to have perpetrated this wholesale butchery to secure the money.

RUNAWAY COUPLE.

Two Well-known Cincinnatians Get Married at Dayton, 0.

Mr. Samuel B. Hagans, son of Judge Ha gans, whose residence is at the head of Broadway, and Miss Lucille B. Carrick, daughter of Dr. A. L. Carrick, the Coronerelect of Hamilton County, whose residence s on Broadway, just below Fifth street, eloped yesterday afternoon and were macried last night.

The lady, who was infatuated with her lover, told her paren's that she was going to visit friends at Dent, Ohio. This was a little after noon. She then met Mr. Hagans and the twain took the 2:30 afternoon train for Dayton, Ohio. In the meantime Mr. Reibold, proprietor of the Beckel House, in that city, was notified to make preparations for preliminaries to a wedding. At 6 o'clock last evening the runaway couple were, in one of the par-lors of the Beckel House, united in wedlock by Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard. Immediately after the close of the ceremonies, the groom sent a dispatch to Dr. Carrick, notifying him of what had taken

Dr. Carrick was taken aback with surprise, as he knew nothing of the affair. His daughter and son-in-law been devotedly attached to each er for the last five years, that the Doctor objected to their marriage on the ground (and that alone) that Mr. Hagans was not sufficiently blessed with worldly wealth to keep a wife as Miss Carrick should be kept. He advised the two wait a while, and the marriage on the sly was the result.

Mr. Hagans is an employe of the Post-office Department at a salary of $75 per month. The disappointed parents of the bride must of course submit to the present state of affairs, and the result will without doubt be the reception of a blessing for the offending couple. The matter has created considerable excitement and talk in the Board of Public Works.

The Board met in regular session, all the members present and President Bell in the chair.

A bill of $183 39 for gravel furnished on Columbia avenue was ordered paid. The Engineer reported that the cost for the improvements on Wheeler street was $361 49.

The contract for repairing the steps on Fourth street from Baum to Kilgour street was awarded to Oscar Arnold.
